

Prosecuting Mortgage Fraud & Vacant Property Crime

National District Attorneys Association

NDAAs are hosting a series of trainings on the investigation and prosecution of mortgage fraud and vacant property crime in 2013. Trainings will cover how to detect fraud, the common and emerging schemes facing our real estate market, and prosecution strategies.

Cost: The trainings are free to attend for prosecutors, law enforcement, and allied investigators. Limited need-based lodging scholarships are available.

Length: 1 – 2 days, depending on location.

Registration: Online registration will soon be available on NDAA's website, www.ndaa.org. Until then, contact Program Director David Pendle at dpendle@ndaa.org, or (703) 549-9222.
